

Dash to Tenge KZT: Exchange DASH in Kazakhstan to Bank Card using <https://www.cash-partners.com/exchange-dash-tenge-kzt-bank-card.html>

To exchange Dash (DASH) to Kazakhstani Tenge (KZT) on a Kazakhstan bank card via the service you linked, you need to create an order on their site, send DASH to the address they give you, and then wait for one blockchain confirmation for the funds to be credited to your card.^[1]

How it works

- The service lets you send DASH directly to Visa and Mastercard bank cards issued by Kazakhstani banks, targeting users in Kazakhstan and abroad.^[1]
- The provider positions itself as suitable for payments to sellers, shops, and private individuals, and also as a way to cash out via ATM without KYC/AML on their side.^[1]

Step-by-step exchange

1. Fill out the exchange form on the page: choose DASH as the source, KZT bank card as the destination, then enter the amount and your card details.^[1]
2. Click the "Exchange" / "Create order" button, read the service terms, and tick the box to accept the agreement.^[1]
3. The site will generate an order and show you the DASH address and exact amount to transfer. Send your DASH from your wallet or exchange (Binance, Bybit, OKX, etc.).^[1]
4. After 1 network confirmation, the system processes the deal and credits KZT to your card; you can track progress on the "Order status" page.^[1]

Important notes

- The text states that Visa and Mastercard cards of listed Kazakhstani banks are "100% accepted," but always double-check that your specific bank and card type are supported before sending funds.^[1]
- There is no KYC/AML on their side according to the description, which can be convenient but also increases your responsibility to assess legal and regulatory risks in your jurisdiction.^[1]

- For pricing, you can compare their offered rate with public DASH-KZT quotes on major platforms such as Binance or converter sites to ensure the spread and fees are acceptable before confirming the exchange. ^[2] ^[3]
